

Character Background

Name: Reddina (Rynn) Cerise

Age: 20

Race: Viros

Occupation: Princess/Queen

Social Class: Royal

Favorite Color: Red

Hometown: Rydel

Reddina was born near the end half of the Somnium War, into high class society. Dignified and exalted she never asked to be raised in royalty but she never complained either. Reddina was raised in a large 1 butler and 2 maid mansion with her older brother Rust and older sister Rose. When Reddina had reached 12 years the raging war forced her family into the fight. Reddina was deemed too young and far inexperienced for battle. As a last resort her parents let her Grandmother care for the child.

Secluded in the dark woods Reddina's new home was far from the battlefield. Having not met her before Reddina was fearful of her new guardian; she had good reason to as deep down her Grandmother held ill intentions for the child. Reddina never questioned the sudden mention of a Grandmother. She just naively thought it was because she lived far away from the family. Slowly but surely her Grandmother had gained Reddina's trust; raising her in the way her Mother had been raising her for 12 years. There was a dark side in raising the child. Each night as Reddina dozed off into the dream plane her Grandmother would perform black magics on her body. This continued till the end of the war and Reddina never found out.

After the war had just ended and the 'Mute Plague' had dissolved, Reddina's family had become 1 of the 13 royal kingdoms chosen to regulate the peace throughout the land. Reddina's parents had personally retrieved their daughter in the woods, but not before interrupting her Grandmother's incantations on the now adult Reddina. Afraid of waking Reddina and getting involved, her Mother casted hex spells; creating a barrier so that her Grandmother would never be able to approach Reddina. Her parents took throne of Rydel and broke the news about Rust and Rose falling in battle. Reddina fell into a deep depression for a while then resumed her now new training as the heir of the Rydel Throne. Still depressed she still goes through the motions of her princess and future Queen Duties.

Name: Raizell Astor
Age: 29
Race: Viros
Occupation: Queen
Social Class: Royal
Favorite Color: Purple
Hometown: Saint Ives

Raizell's mother died at birth, although her father was in pain he kept his promise and did not remarry. She was raised in a humble abode without knowing the touch of a mom, she also did not have the opportunity of being sheltered by siblings. She saw the lack of relatives as blessings as that would have slowed her down. At a young age Raizell starting showing signs that she had inherited her mother's pili traits. She could bend, grow and form her hairs into her very liking. Not knowing how to deal with her newly found powers her father let her do as she pleased, but not before giving her mother's diary.

As the time went by and the war raged on, Raizell had grown to a splitting image of her mother. Relived and proud to have raised a sapling into a wondrous women all by himself, Raizell's father thought it was time to visit her mother's grave. At the grave site Raizell had told her father that she had already enlisted as a commander in the Viros Army. Immediately apprehensive her father could do nothing to dissuade her, for she had already become a mature adult. Fearing the probability of losing another love of his life her father resorted to a makeshift solution; he joined the war under Raizell's battalion as a cavalry troop. Overtime with the aid of her hair she became the youngest general to command several platoons at once.

Nearing the end of the war Raizell woke on the battlefield to an enemy ambush. Blood splattered on her face and on the ground beside her as her father jumped in the middle of a Majin raid. Raizell became dead frozen as she saw her only true family gets slaughtered in front of her. Her troops swooped right in to defend their General suffering from traumatic shell shock.

The war ended as Raizell had just begun to get back on her feet. She had still been praised as the general of the 8th battalion, in which she was appointed as 1 of the 13 Royals to keep the power balance throughout the land. Still confidently keeping to her throne she dares not show any weakness to her people.

Name: Gilda Rothschild

Age: 26

Race: Oiron

Occupation: Queen

Social Class: Royal

Favorite Color: Yellow

Hometown: XactenGaurd

Gilda was born with a platinum spoon in her mouth. Her family could have bought half of LipTune if they ever so wanted, however then they wouldn't have enough to spend on her. On her 8th birthday her father bought an entire zoo so that all the lower class could watch her have all the fun. On that day she became wildly fascinated with elusive honey bears.

Gilda is known for always having her way, and that everything she touches should be perfect. There was a time where her family had just hired a new chef. He served her a soup that was a degree hotter than what she was accustomed to, so as a result of feeding her a defective meal she had him hanged in front of all the other servants. That was the last day they had ever faced an accident in the palace.

Gilda was born near the end of the war, though she was still too young to join, her family could have paid a group of rouges to take their place on the battlefield. At the end of the war, originally Gilda's family was not chosen as one of the 13 chosen Royals, however as a 21st birthday present her father paid a secret amount so that Gilda would be the new Queen of XactenGaurd, and one of the Royals that regulated the powers of the land. Before her coronation she shyly brought up her dark hair and got it synthetically colored a golden yellow.

Appearance:

Because these characters are of Royal status and Queens, they are pure Icons for their kingdoms. All of the Royals dress in a Victorian style of clothing with Harajuku influences. The reason for the Harajuku blend is so that they look nothing like commoners and that no commoner could come close to their dress appearance. Harajuku style requires a personal choice in taste, something no commoner could ever replicate at a Royal level. All Royals have perfect skin and body with a diamond shape face comparable to pristine royalty in modern times.

Reddina wears a Victorian long sleeve skirt with a Harajuku Punk blend. Although she likes the color red she never wears it in clothing. Her hair is of a Japanese princess haircut, with a red ribbon braided into her pony tail that reaches down to her left chest. She wears black buttoned boots. She has dark brown hair that shines a light tan in the sun. She carries a black and white messenger bag.

Raizell is dressed in elegant Victorian dress with a small hint of Harajuku. The dresses she wears are light and breathable, with a small cut to show a bit of leg and easy movement. She has a silky beige hair that reaches below her heels. Her clothes are all various shades of purple.

Gilda wears a yellow and white Victorian short puffy sleeve and skirt with a Ganguro Harajuku mix. She wears a brassier that compliments her breast. Her hair is of golden yellow that coils up shaping into a beehive like shape. Thick strands of curls drape down each coil in a perfect pattern. She is seen always holding a stuffed teddy bear in her left arm.

Relation:

These characters are related to each other in a way that they are of the new 13 Royals of the world. Reddina (Rynn) has to decide how to retrieve the other Queens 'sacred item'. Rynn has been advised that both queens are much stronger than she is, and that she will have to resort to trickery to get one to attack the other. Rynn has the choice of stealing a precious ring and frame the other queen, or defacing the hair conditioner leaving obvious clues that it was the other Royal.

Raizell and Gilda have known of each other as somewhat close acquaintances, as there have been couple instances where they have been seen having tea out of the Royal Summit meetings. Although the 13 Royals know of each other they mind their own business and regulate their own part of the world. Because of this neither Queen would suspect Rynn for any wrong doings.